

Seed · Chicago, United States

Corbel Legal

Deposition summaries and exhibit indexes for small litigation firms, ready the morning after

The problem

What's broken today

A single day of deposition produces 250 to 400 transcript pages, and litigation boutiques still pay paralegals or outside vendors US$2–4 a page to summarise them. Summaries arrive a week later, page-line citations are often wrong, and partners end up rereading the full transcript the night before a motion is due.

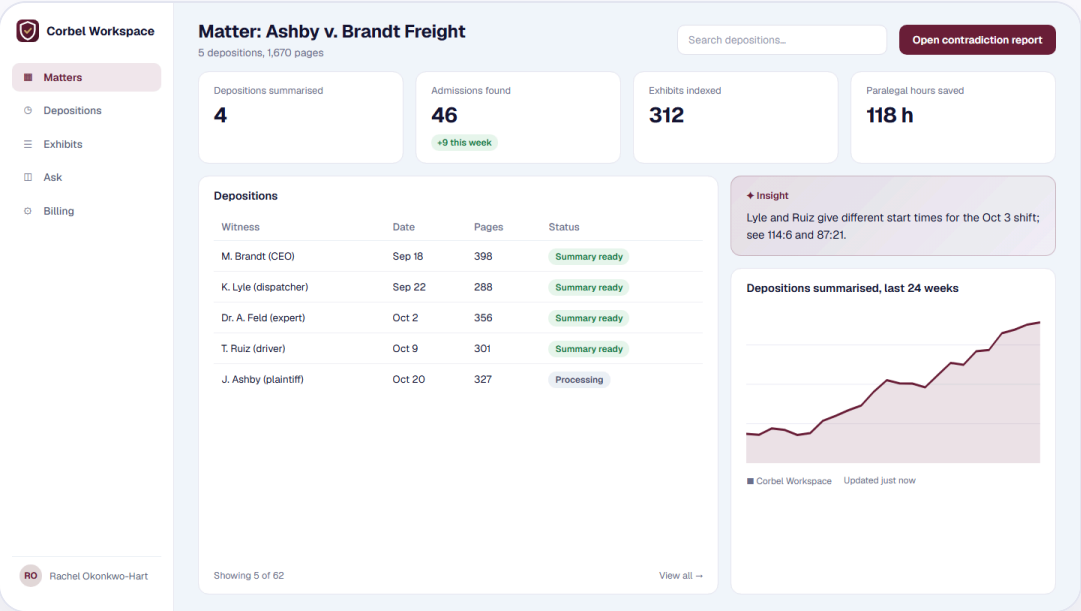

Corbel Legal

Our solution

Corbel Workspace

Corbel ingests transcripts and exhibits as soon as the court reporter delivers them and produces a page-line summary, a topic index and a list of admissions mapped to the claims in the complaint. Every statement links to the exact transcript line, and attorneys can ask follow-up questions across all depositions in a matter.

Summary: K. Lyle deposition

 Corbel Workspace

Matters

Depositions

Exhibits

Ask

Billing

Summary: K. Lyle deposition

288 pages, taken Sep 22

Search depositions...

Add to motion outline

Page-line cites

214

Topics

18

Admissions

11

Objections

37

Key admissions

Cite	Topic	Statement	Claim
42:3–42:19	Training	No hours-of-service training	Count II
67:11–68:2	Dispatch	Override rest alert	Count I
88:14–88:25	Records	Logs edited after trip	Count III
131:5–131:12	Policy	Policy not posted	Count II
202:9–203:1	Staffing	Two dispatchers short	Count I

Showing 5 of 36

View all →

Insight

Three admissions about edited logs support Count III and are not yet in the motion outline.

 Corbel Legal

RO

Rachel Okonkwo-Hart

Why now

The timing

Transcripts now arrive digitally within a day, and long-context models can hold a whole deposition while citing the exact line, which made reliable summaries possible.

Market

US litigation firms of 5 to 150 lawyers, roughly 30,000 firms, plus insurance defence panels that take many depositions a month and are pressed on cost by carriers.

Corbel Legal

How we make money

Subscription at US$190 a month per attorney with paralegal seats free, plus US$0.20 per transcript page above 10,000 pages a month.

Traction

Where we are

34

Paying firms

US$61K

Monthly revenue

380,000

Pages processed per month

99.2%

Citation accuracy

- 34 paying firms, 80% of them referred by other litigators
- US$61K monthly revenue, growing 14% month on month
- 380,000 pages a month at 99.2% citation accuracy on audit

Corbel Legal

Team

Who's building it

RO

Rachel Okonkwo-Hart

CEO and co-founder

DN

Daniel Nowicki

CTO and co-founder

MS

Meera Shah

Head of Legal Product

Corbel Legal

The ask

What we're raising

Raising US$3.2M seed to reach 150 firms and US$3M ARR by 2028

- Integrations with the 3 most used practice management tools
- Two sales leads focused on insurance defence panels
- SOC 2 Type II audit and private-cloud deployment

Corbel Legal